Farming Quest

A 3 week introduction to Farming God's Way with Growing Nations in Lesotho

Farming Quest is an opportunity for long & short term missionaries & key people working in agriculture in Africa, to come together for 3 weeks to learn how to Farm God's Way.

It is suited to those who have farming experience at the start of their assignments or existing workers who want to develop their work settings further through agriculture. It is also an ideal opportunity for those wishing to learn how they can reach out to unreached people groups through a combination of the gospel & agriculture.

Held on the Growing Nations demonstration farm in Lesotho, the founder of the project, August Basson and other members of the team will teach the main principles of Conservation Agriculture & Transformational Development. Participants will have the opportunity to take part in practical demonstrations, classroom teachings and to meet local farmers to hear how their lives have been transformed. You will also be able to spend time with the resident Basotho students learning at Growing Nations.

What you will learn:

- The Principles of Farming God's Way & Conservation Agriculture.
- Teaching Transformational Development to others.
- Teaching through agricultural extension.
- Experience of the Growing Nations Resident Student Program.
- The benefits of cover crops.
- How to train & equip those in your community & beyond.

If you are interested in joining Farming Quest, please contact your AIM International representative or Heather Mann. To find out more about the work of Growing Nations and read feedback from past participants, please visit www.growingnations.co.za.
